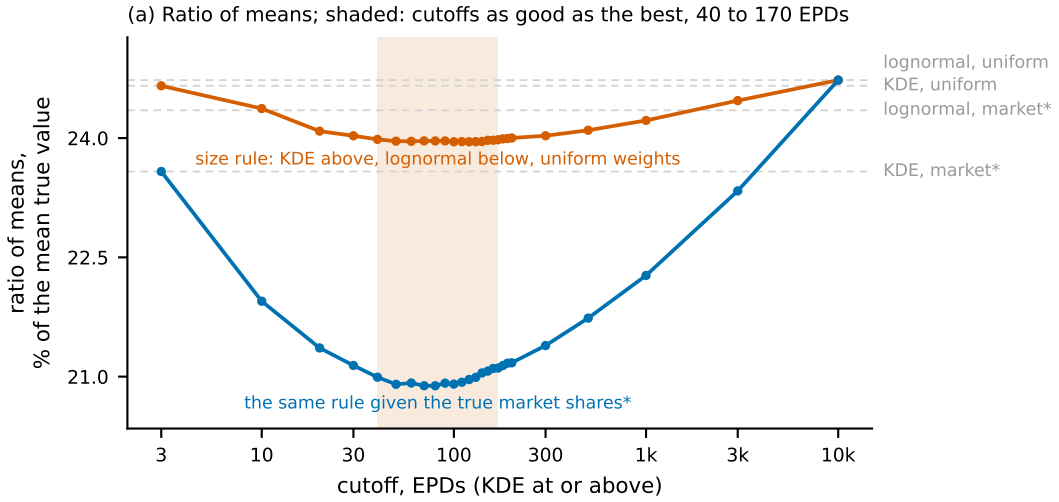
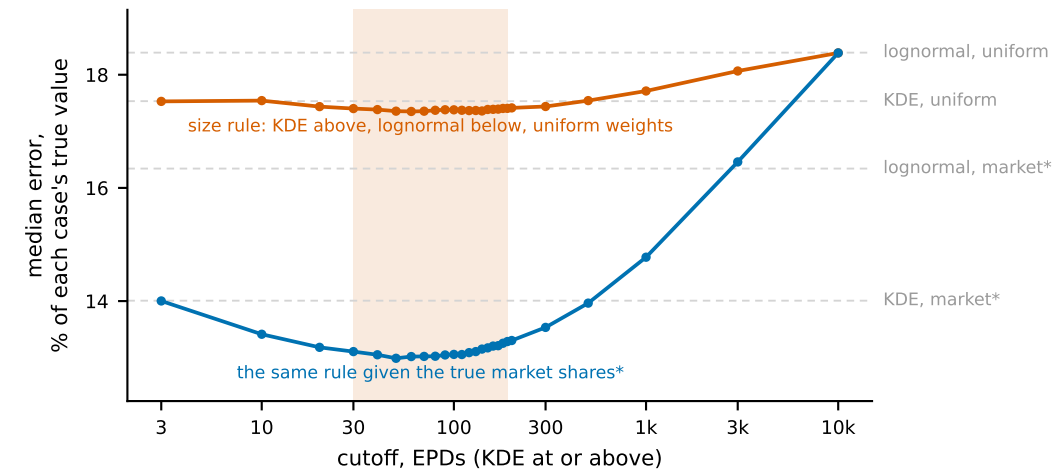
The size rule has a lower error than KDE or the lognormal alone over a wide range of cutoffs, under both statistics





* requires market shares, which are not published